

A successful casting class was held at Clohamon Fishery on the 29th. of June.

Many thanks to Myles Kelly (of Inland Fisheries Ireland - IFI) and Jason O' Riordan, who both provided well acclaimed expertise in casting instruction (with both single and double handed rods ), David Dobbs who made the Fishery available for the occasion and John Carroll for the organisation.

The event was sponsored by IFI under their Sponsorship Programme. Fourteen anglers attended and there was scope for a lot of one to one instruction. It was very encouraging to see that several young anglers came to the class.

Afterwards a barbeque for twenty people was held at the Fishery Hut. A few participants stayed on till 9 o'clock for the guided sea trout fishing but the run is late this year - however Paddy Corcoran landed one fine fish at Clohamon.

The photos below give you a feel for the great afternoon had by all.

Jason O'Riordan starts the double handed class

Billy and Liam Turner at work in the single handed class

Myles Kelly and Hugh Turner

Myles Kelly and Thomas Kearns

Members of the double handed class

